Love, in its truest form, is not a singular entity but a multifaceted gem, radiating various shades and intensities. While the world often associates love with romantic relationships (eros), the Bible reveals a richer tapestry, incorporating different expressions of love, each playing a vital role in our spiritual and emotional well-being. This 40-day journey, inspired by the wisdom of Rick Warren, will explore these facets:

Agape: This unconditional, selfless love is the cornerstone of Christian faith. It's a sacrificial love, extending grace even to our enemies, mirroring the boundless love of God.

Philia: Brotherly love, characterized by deep friendship and mutual respect, forms the basis of strong and supportive relationships.

Storge: Natural affection, this type of love encompasses familial bonds, the inherent connection between parents and children, siblings, and extended family.
