Book Concept: A La Mode Huntington

Logline: A stylish, witty, and insightful exploration of Huntington Beach's unique blend of surf culture, upscale living, and the ever-evolving pursuit of "a la mode" - blending tradition with trendy innovation.

Target Audience: Anyone interested in California culture, lifestyle trends, coastal living, design, food, and the unique character of Huntington Beach. This includes residents, visitors, and those who simply appreciate a well-crafted story about a fascinating place.

Storyline/Structure:

The book will adopt a thematic structure, weaving together three primary strands:

The Surf Legacy: A historical exploration of Huntington Beach's roots as a surfing mecca, tracing its evolution from a sleepy beach town to a global surf destination. This section will feature interviews with iconic surfers, local legends, and historical accounts.

Modern Huntington: An in-depth look at the contemporary Huntington Beach - its architecture, culinary scene, fashion, and the tension between preserving its heritage and embracing modern trends. This section will showcase diverse voices from the community, including business owners, artists, and everyday residents.

A La Mode Hunting: This section acts as a narrative thread, following a fictional character (or a collection of interwoven narratives) navigating the modern Huntington scene, seeking to find their own unique style and place within this vibrant community. This serves as a relatable anchor for the informational aspects of the book.
