The writing process is not a linear path; it's iterative. Effective writing involves several stages:

Drafting: This stage involves writing a first draft without worrying about perfection. Focus on getting your ideas down on paper. Don't be afraid to make mistakes—they are opportunities for improvement.

Revising: Revising focuses on the larger aspects of your writing, such as content, organization, and argumentation. Ask yourself: Does my essay make sense? Is my argument clear and supported by evidence? Do I need to add, remove, or reorganize sections?

Editing: Editing focuses on grammar, mechanics, style, and clarity. This stage involves proofreading for errors in grammar, punctuation, spelling, and sentence structure.
