It would highlight the curated nature of online profiles and the disparity between online presentations and offline realities.

Chapter 7: The Pursuit of the Ideal: This chapter would explore the cultural obsession with achieving the "ideal" life – the perfect job, the perfect family, the perfect body. It would examine the unrealistic expectations society places on individuals and the psychological toll of constantly striving for an unattainable goal. It would delve into societal pressures, consumerism, and the role of marketing in shaping this narrative.
