Chapter 1: Planning Your Vermont AT Adventure: Permits, Reservations, and Logistics

Before embarking on your Vermont AT adventure, meticulous planning is paramount. Obtaining the necessary permits is crucial, particularly for thru-hikers who might need to make reservations at campsites along the trail. The Green Mountain Club (GMC), the steward of the AT in Vermont, provides detailed information regarding permits and regulations. Understanding the permitting process, including deadlines and requirements, is crucial to avoid delays and potential conflicts. This chapter will provide a clear roadmap to navigate the permit process smoothly and efficiently, outlining the necessary steps and the relevant contact information. Moreover, it covers logistical aspects, including transportation to and from trailheads, arranging for resupply points, and making appropriate reservations for lodging in nearby towns.
